Town ready to join in possible MWRA suit

by Jeff Nazzaro
The Water and Sewer Commission voted unanimously Thursday night to take part in a coalition of communities in a fact-finding mission regarding a possible class-action suit against the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority (MWRA).

The commission met with Selectman Diane M. Allan, Senator Robert Buell, Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull and a representative from Rep. James Miceli's office.

There are 43 communities claiming to be over-assessed by the MWRA, and Wilmington Water and Sewer is looking for at least 31 to join in a possible lawsuit.

A July 1 meeting is scheduled at the Waltham City Hall for the purpose of obtaining "financial commitments from the 31 over-assessed communities," according to a correspondence sent to Town Manager Michael Cairra from the president of the Waltham City Council.

The Water and Sewer Commission gave approval for the use of not more than $2,500 at the discretion of Cairra for the preliminary fact-finding stage.

If the committee of over-assessed communities, which has retained the services of Attorney Stephen Delinsky, believes it has a strong suit, they are counting on being involved for one to three years, with costs for Wilmington ranging from $5,600 to $9,300.

"The money being spent comes from the rate-payers," Selectman Robert Cain pointed out at Monday's selectmen's meeting. However, rate-payers can expect to save a projected $526,000 if the suit is successful.

"You have to weigh your options at this point, and do what's best for the town," Senator Buell said following the Water and Sewer Board meeting, adding, "there are many political brambles to unravel."

Delinsky will bring the proposed suit only before a federal judge, citing faster expedition and a single judge, whereas the state would probably drag a suit out.

According to Selectman Allan, the town will make its commitment at the July 1 meeting in Waltham provided "a majority of municipalities are entering [the class-action suit]," and, "on the advice of town counsel."

Board approves Buckingham Estates plan

by Jeff Nazzaro
Amidst a throng of concerned residents from the Buckingham Street area, the Board of Selectmen voted 4-1 Monday night to approve plans for the Buckingham Estates development.

Thomas Realty Trust offered a development proposal that would entail the building of 23 homes on an 11.5 acre site. Of the 23 homes, six are to be deemed as affordable housing.

Chairperson Carole Hamilton of the Housing Partnership, which voted unanimously to recommend draft conditions and confirm support of the Buckingham Estates Development, was present at the selectmen's meeting to offer further approval.

Many residents were present to assert their disapproval of the development, but realizing they were left with little chance of stopping construction, settled for a list of eight conditions.

One concession by Thomas Realty to the residents centers around repairs to Buckingham Street, Cambridge Street and Somerville Avenue. The repavement is to be done both before the proposal and after construction is completed if any damage to Buckingham Street occurs.

A primary concern was the width of the pavement along Buckingham Street. Residents worried that paving the street any more than 20 feet would take away a foot or more from their property. However, the board assured the homeowners that their property did not extend to the street or cover the area being discussed for widening the street.

While many Wilmington residents blame the town for what they conceive as a blow to their property values, Chairman Chester Bruce put responsibility in the state's hands, saying the zoning permits resulting in the cluster-type building "have been put on the books not by the town of Wilmington, but by the state."

NET agrees to correct any damage

by Jeff Nazzaro
Monday night's marathon selectmen's meeting that lasted well into the midnight hour led with a lengthy discussion involving the placement of a conduit by New England Telephone (NET) on Salem Street, Ring Avenue, Biggar Avenue, Gearty Street and Pilcher Drive.

The decision of the board was bogged down by concerns of area homeowners regarding the reconditioning by NET of disrupted sections of sidewalk.

Leading the contingent weary of damage to their neighborhood was Jeffrey Oxman, a civil engineer who lives at 10 Biggar Ave. Oxman was commended on his "expertise" on the matter by Chairman Chester Bruce.

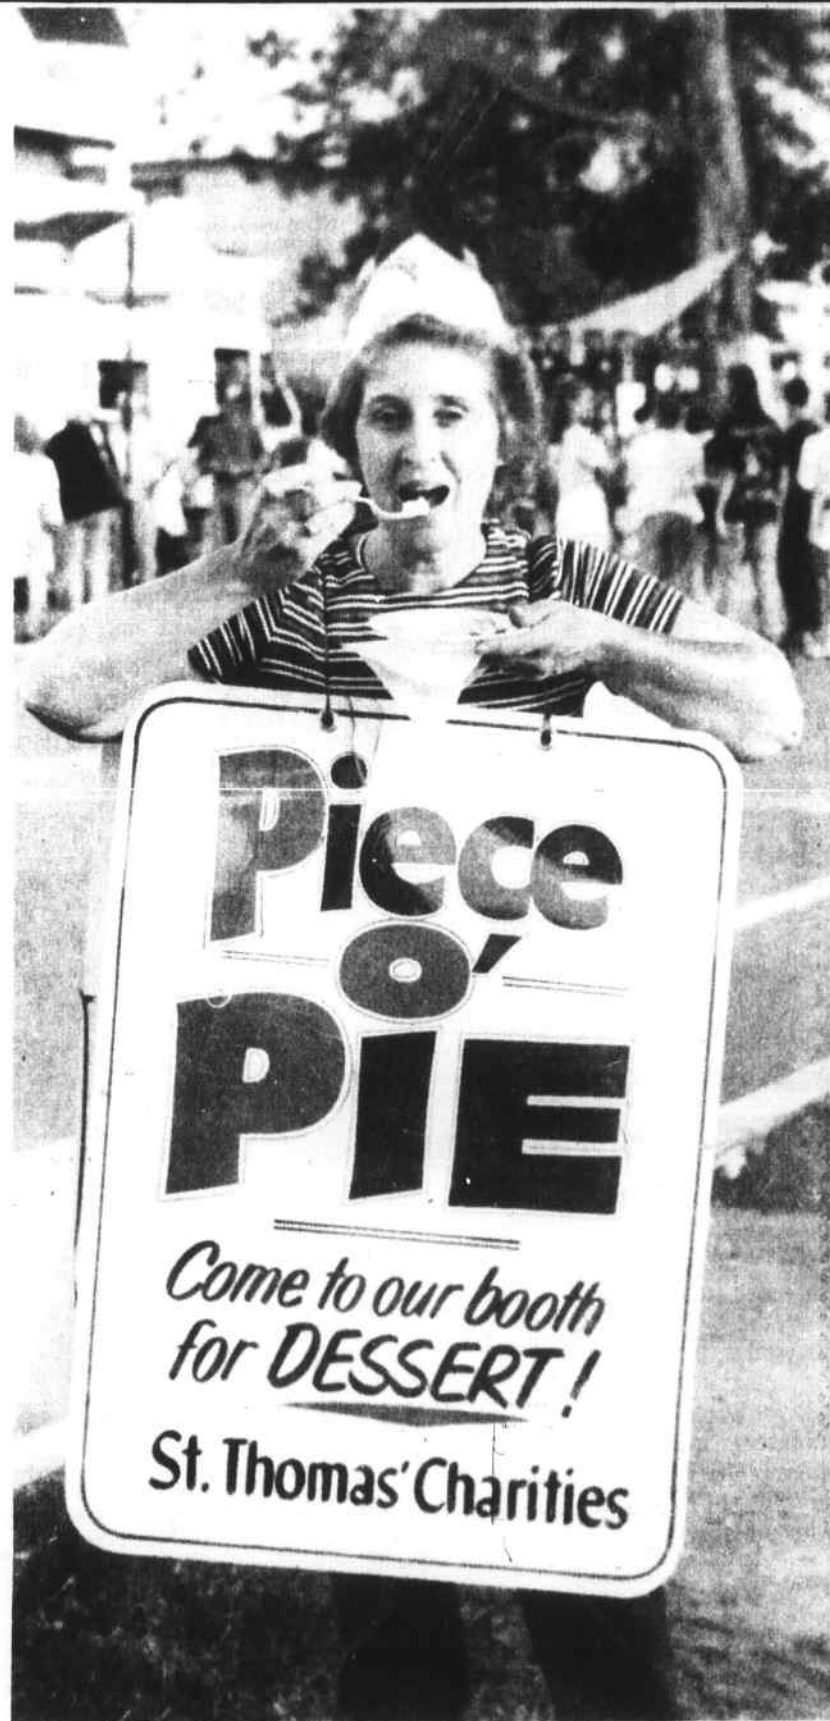

The board, NET and residents reached a compromise when Selectman Michael McCoy rescinded a previous motion that would make the telephone company responsible for replacing sidewalks along the entire street if any portion was disrupted.

A second motion limited NET's responsibility to all areas they damage and they agreed to resurface entire damaged areas between property lines.

Financial break for hockey

by Jeff Nazzaro
Ristuccia Exposition Center operators Albert and Arlene Reidy have slashed the $14,400 bill for the 1993-94 Wilmington High School hockey program in half through what WHS Principal Paul T. Fleming called a "generous donation."

In a letter to the Board of Selectmen, Fleming announced the donation that will cut the cost of ice time from $160.00 per hour to $50.00 per hour and provide 10 free hours of ice for WHS' junior varsity skaters.

No, she isn't selling fishing tackle, or hats, or even garden supplies. The sandwich board says it all for Susan Duarte, caught this week at the Wilmington Fun on The Fourth celebration on the town common.

Teachers get ready with workshop

by Jeff Nazzaro
Although school officially closed for the summer Friday afternoon, more than 100 Wilmington teachers were back in class, this time for workshops Monday and Tuesday.

The program, according to Superintendent of Schools Geraldine O'Donnell, was designed to educate teachers on national standards in math and science, "and to also bring them up to date on the most successful practices for teaching writing."

The program itself was taught by members of the Education Development Center in Newton and was designed for elementary, middle and high school teachers.

Wilmington High School English Department Chairperson Cathy Symonds offered additional writing workshops to high school English teachers as well as other department heads.

"The number of teachers that signed up for [the workshops] was to me very, very impressive and showed the degree of enthusiasm that the teachers have for really doing substantial curriculum work," O'Donnell said, adding that the turnout of teachers to the workshops was "very heartening to see."

State Rep. acts on M.W.R.A.

Representative Jim Miceli who represents Tewksbury and Wilmington in the General Court, played an active role in the recent House budget deliberations.

Representative Miceli co-sponsored and debated in favor of amendments to the budget which addressed the runaway M.W.R.A. sewer rates being charged Wilmington residents tied into the sewer system.

The FY 94 House budget now contains 18 million dollars which will be used to help contain any scheduled increases proposed by the M.W.R.A. The total amount in the line item was 30 million dollars with 12 million dollars being diverted to other parts of the state. Wilmington rate payers like many other M.W.R.A. communities are penalized by the methodology used to assess each community. Although very few residents are tied into the sewer system, the town's total population and population equivalent are used to determine M.W.R.A. wholesale charges.

The Representative debated vigorously for an amendment that would change the rate methodology to one that considered metered flow only. The Representative argued that the current method used forces towns and other cities in the district to subsidize cities like Boston. The amendment carried but was later given reconsideration.

Rep. Miceli and other members then were successful in passing an amendment that compels the board to come back later on this year with a proposed methodology change. Representative Miceli feels the methodology change is the key to rate relief.

Language was also inserted in the budget that prompted the M.W.R.A. to reconsider its capital costs. The House budget also gives authority over the M.W.R.A. to the Governor.

The House budget also level funds last year's Local Aid appropriations and increases lottery aid to cities and towns by 46 million dollars, which gives Tewksbury and Wilmington a significant Local Aid Bonus. The budget contained no new taxes.

The Representative was also successful in helping to insert language in the Budget which earmarked $100,000 for Vision House in Tewksbury. Vision House is an area facility which helps individuals with traumatic head injuries. The money was needed for operating expenses until this pioneer facility can obtain a revenue stream.

Dogs given short lease

by Jeff Nazzaro

After a brief debate regarding the fate of the German Shepherd dogs owned by Anthony Vieira, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen voted, 3-2 Monday night to allow the dogs to stay under certain conditions.

Chairman Chester Bruce, citing "a little state of grace" for Vieira's dogs, warned that if either of the canines was found running loose at any time, it would be destroyed.

Siding with the Board of Health's decision to have the dogs removed from town were Selectmen Diane Allan and Michael McCoy, the latter stating the decision about the dogs to be "one of the toughest I've had to make as a member of [the Board of Selectmen]."

After testimony from Allan and McCoy citing human safety, selectmen Robert Cain, Chairman Bruce, and Gerald Duggan voted to give Vieira and his dogs another chance.

WHAT YOU CAN'T DO WITH AN IRA

An Individual Retirement Account is smart saving because of its tax-deferral advantage. Even if you can't use it to reduce your tax bite, it may be a good investment. Important: do it right.

*It makes sense to fund your IRA as early in the year as you can, so the money has a longer time to grow tax-deferred.

*No matter how much you have in your IRA, and it grows fast! you may not borrow from it. The penalty disqualifies the entire IRA.

*Don't try to sell your own property to your IRA; this is prohibited.

*Don't invest IRA funds in collectibles like art, antiques or gems.

*Don't take out IRA money before you're 59 1/2; generally there's a 10 percent penalty in addition to the tax you pay on the distribution, with certain exceptions.

*Don't neglect to take out a minimum distribution at 70 1/2.

TOWN CRIER, JUNE 30, 1993

It was on a misty moonlit night, many years ago by a quiet pond, unknown to most townsfolk, an unusual event transpired. While the full summer moon looked down at itself in the mirror surface and listened to the steeple clock in the distance chime 12, unexpectedly, the shiny reflection was shattered by a shadowy form rising out of the water. A lady, whose auburn tresses cascaded about shoulders, was wearing a flowing gown which shimmered in the moon light and in her hand - a lighted candle. As she walked across the field, flowers appeared by her feet, and the landscape was transmuted to peaceful beauty.

To this day...one can see the lady from the Stillwater...on a Stillwaer Co. creation 100 percent cotton t-shirt, water blue on oatmeal beige, $10.00 at Vintage Etc., Cambridge and Stillwater Gardens, Wilmington.

Abundant Life School bites the dust

by Kevin John Sowryda

Last week the Wilmington School Committee proved once again that no good deed will go unpunished when it voted to evict the Wilmington First Baptist Church's Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center from the old Boutwell School.

In the midst of the town's annual July 4th week celebrations, when you park your car in the Baptist Church's parking lot, you might wonder how long Pastor Ron Grimley and his parishioners will continue to turn the other cheek in the aftermath of this latest slap in the face.

The Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center has provided a K-8 alternative to the public school experience for families in Wilmington, Tewksbury and the surrounding area, including southern New Hampshire, for a decade. Add the Learning Center pre-school day care and the "extended day" component which provides 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. care for grade school children of working parents, and the town enjoys a jewel of an asset at no public cost.

Over the years, the Baptist Church, located adjacent to Wilmington High School on Church Street, has allowed the town use of church land, provided parking for numerous town and school activities, actively taken part in many community events and been an exemplary member of the community.

The school committee reasoned that population bubbles in the kindergarten and fifth grade "required" this takeover which School Committee Chairman Brad Jackson termed "the only educationally viable option." Apparently, utilization of the half empty high school by the kindergarten "bubble" was not considered "educationally viable." Nor, apparently, was a suggestion that the seventh and eighth grades be joined at the North Intermediate and the West Intermediate and the Wildwood, Woburn Street and Shawheen Schools be made K-six institutions. This would eliminate middle school rivalries among the high school freshmen and provide better space utilization.

If you are not persuaded that the Baptist Church has been a good neighbor to the high school and the town, and you haven't witnessed the quality program which compliments the public schools more than it competes with them, then grab your wallet and read on.

The cost of readying the Boutwell School for the 1993-94 academic year has been estimated to be $100,000.00. A new boiler is needed. The kitchen area needs an overhaul. Windows need replacement or repair. Extensive remodeling will be required to transform the building into a suitable public school. As is often the case with government estimates, many believe the figure is only a fraction of what the final cost will really be. School Committeewoman Dr Shirley Callan was quoted recently as saying that a Proposition 2 1/2 override cannot be ruled out as necessary to fund the project.

On the same night as the eviction vote, your education leaders voted to eliminate the jobs of six teachers. Next year, the remaining teachers will receive an eight percent pay raise. The recently enacted education reform bill will pit town departments against the school department in an unsavory battle for bucks.

Taxpayers are being told that the best way to deal with the temporary problem of overcrowding is to repossess a relic, add administrators to run an additional school, cut the number of teachers, increase salaries, override Proposition 2 1/2, give the public buildings department another dinosaur to maintain and evict a tenant that pays the town $20,000.00 per year in rent. Does that sound like a good deal to you?

This is not an issue just for Baptists and other Christians, or families and kindergartners and fifth graders. This is not even about the relative merits of private schools versus public schools or school choice. This is about fiscal responsibility and accountability. It is also about attracting families and businesses to our town by having diverse and desirable educational and child care opportunities. We have heard rhetoric about economic revitalization ad nauseum. This plan does little to improve public education and is short-sighted when weighed against the overall community impact.

Perhaps the best reason to save the Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center is that their administration knows how to live within a budget, not to mention understanding something about values and how to run a school.

Wilmington Housing Authority update

Dear Larz:

Since good news deserves to be published, I felt obliged to give Wilmington residents an update on the Wilmington Housing Authority. As past commissioner and chairman, I still have a basic interest in its well being, therefore, on occasion I try to get an update on what's going on. If you stop by the Authority you may find disadvantaged/troubled teenagers scraping paint and washing windows. All for the cost of a lunch. The executive director of eight months has contracted a lawn service that is sprucing up (literally) the surroundings.

Most importantly, spearheaded by Dot Butters, the Share program is now in full gear at the authority, with many volunteers pitching in to distribute food to all who would like to join.

Saturdays can be very busy at the Authority with Executive Director Ken Dorrance and Mel Keough driving to the food warehouse, loading up the truck with food for eventual distribution for 27 members. Once delivered to the Authority hall, Anne Stanley, Grace Rosa, Charlie Dolan and the rest, separate the foodstuffs into individual boxes for final delivery. Bottom, line, you pay $14 and get $35 worth of food. Volunteers working for a common goal at the housing authority, who would have even figured it? I hear that it is very difficult these days to find a resident who is not smiling.

Is it possible that something good has come out of all the infighting of years past? Commissioners/ residents and its office, keep working together for that's how the job gets done. Right?

Tom Siracusa

Dear Larz:

The town has had enough petty bickering over the past few years. I've decided not to respond to the letter from Mike McCoy which you printed last week.

Woburn Street's
Old Glory

Fifth graders at Wilmington's Woburn Street School stand with their flag mural that was presented to the Edith Nourse Rogers Memorial Veterans Hospital.

Old Glory at sunset gift to V.A. hospital

The fifth grade students at the Woburn Street School presented the veterans at the Edith Nourse Rogers Memorial Veterans Hospital a 6 x 10 foot mural of the American flag unfurling at sunset. The image was enlarged to 6" x 10" then broken up into 60 one inch squares. Each child then selected a square and enlarged it into a 12" x 12" sheet of drawing paper. Students used the grid system to transfer the image so math skills as well as art were involved. The students became very excited as they saw their drawings and the mural as a whole evolve. Art Teacher, Marie Shack, art then taped the squares together in the correct sequences, resulting in the final image.

On June 22 Dick DeRosas assistant Principal Jack Fahey, Guidance Counselor and Marie Shack, art teacher presented the mural to Mrs. Debbie Murchie, chief of Voluntary Services and William Conte head of Public Affairs at the Edith Nourse Rogers Veterans Hospital. They were truly impressed with the talent of the fifth graders and the veterans were delighted to have such an impressive image of the flag for their recreation room.

Ruth says "We pride ourselves on individual attention and personal service for each and every client. Like 'CHEERS', everybody knows your name. Most of our clients are our friends and neighbors - and THEN, their friends and neighbors. Word of mouth has proven to be our best form of advertising." At Journeys Unlimited you'll feel right at home while you're going away. The atmosphere in the office is like your kitchen at home. Come in... have a cup of coffee, relax and have fun while you plan your trip!

Whether it's a gambling spree in Las Vegas or Atlantic City, a honeymoon in Hawaii, a wonderful family jaunt to Disney, that long awaited Caribbean cruise, or that dream trip to Europe, Ruth and her staff are ready to assist you with all your travel arrangements.

Need to buy airline tickets? Journeys Unlimited can simplify this process by translating the "fine print" into getting you the lowest available sale fare at no extra cost. ### Sanda Equipment Sales • 222 Andover St., Wilmington • (508) 694-9920

Being a dealer for a major manufacturer can be more fun than one might think. Sandy Ford is a John Deere dealer. He sells and lawn tractors, lawn mowers and the necessary accessories and fun. It's a family business, his wife Aurora and four children (ages 12, 9, 6 and 5) all have a part in it. The children love to wash and park the riding tractors outside for display. The tractor that "needs" the most driving always seems to go first.

Sandy has been amazed a few times by the company that backs him. A few weeks ago a customer came in looking for a part for a 25 year old Deere. Sandy looked it up and "By gosh - it was there!" "We had it shipped in overnight and the machine was running the next day!" When he asked if it was time for a new machine the customer replied, "Nope, it's still workin' fine."

"It's the service," Sandy says. "Making people happy about owning a John Deere." All the products from John Deere carry a 2 year warranty and Sandy insisted on a 2 year warranty from every manufacturer of the side line items he carries. The gas powered line trimmer, the chipper, or any other machine is covered for 2 years! He also boasts of the 30 day money back policy. If you're not satisfied with your John Deere, bring it back for a refund or replacement. No hassle.

Just for fun they carry toys. Model tractors and trucks and all. Some your kids can ride and some that need a push and some you won't let them touch. John Deere makes a "Precision Classics" line of detailed antique replicas which sell for $150.00 new. Collectors snatch them up fast. The only one Sandy has in stock right now is a 1936 Model A John Riding a Deere are (l to r) Aurora Ford, Sandy Ford (standing), chief mechanic Rodel Olvido and mechanic Dan Robbins.

Deere with a six row harrow attached.

You've heard the ads on TV and radio about "Deere Season." Well, that's over now and it's time for service on your Deere. Free pick-up and delivery in Tewksbury and Wilmington makes it easy to keep your Deere in top shape. Call for prompt courteous service: (508) 694-9920

Shawsheen Project 2000, summer youth training

A summer program that not only enables area youth to explore careers and hone academic skills, but also pays them for their time is taking place at Shawsheen Tech. Called Project 2000 Shawsheen Summer Youth Training Program, the offering is funded by Employment Research Incorporated (ERI) in Cambridge and the Northern Middlesex Service Delivery Area, Lowell Region.

To qualify for the program, which pays participants $106 per week to attend school ($4.25) per hour for a minimum of 25 hours a week in Project 2000, students must be 14 to 18 year old, live in Billerica, Burlington, Tewksbury or Wilmington and be either economically disadvantaged or on an individual educational plan (IEP). Twenty students from each of the four participating towns will be accepted.

Students attend Project 2000 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Thursday, July 6 to August 19. They spend a half day in academic classes and a half day in vocational technical programs under the tutelage of Shawsheen program instructors, trying their hand at skills needed for careers in automotive technology, carpentry, electrical, graphic arts, desktop publishing, metal fabrication, and plumbing.

Each student will be tested for placement in the academic classes. On Mondays and Tuesdays, the academic portion will concentrate on math and science; Wednesday and Thursday is reserved for English and reading.

"The concept behind this program is to give students a better understanding of career options by actually exploring and experiencing the hands on skills needed for a job, learning about work opportunities and related careers, and further developing their academic potential," said John F. McDermott, assistant superintendent for community services. "We believe this is much more constructive and productive than channeling students into the unskilled jobs that are typically available to this age group," he added.

Bus transportation will be provided; students must take their own lunch and snacks. For an application form or more information, call Paul Cecchini in the guidance office at Shawsheen (508) 667-2111, ext.112.

Art exhibit once again "a splendid affair"

The 13th annual art exhibition by the Wilmington Council for the Arts held Saturday and Sunday, June 26 and 27 at the Arts Center was once again a splendid affair. Over 200 persons were well rewarded by their visit to the exhibit (some returning on the second day) for the works shown have increased in quality and variety of subject over the years. Wilmington may well be proud of its artistic citizens, both they who "do" and they who look. Dorothy Richards won the John D. Brooks award, which is given to a Wilmington artist who has shown the most promise and progress in his/her work.

In photography Kathy Chabel won first prize for her innovative "The Beach as I found it II;" Bryan S. Borgal received second prize, and Celia Cornish, third.

In watercolor first prize went to Louise Anderson (a teacher at the art classes sponsored by the council) for her "Twin Lights Gloucester;" second prize to Diana Pasquariello, and third to Evelyn Anderson, former Wilmington art director in the Wilmington schools.

In oil, first prize was awarded to Leda Sullivan for her "Oriental Still Life;" second prize went to Mary A. Saija, and third to Rita Stynes-Strow.

In pastels Dorothy Richards received first prize for her "Reflections on Boston" a lovely rendering of the Mass. State House and Dora Hirtle won second prize.

Works shown by students who have taken advantage of the art center's classes were submitted and first prize was awarded to Jane Crane; second to Ruth Meyers Laider, and third by Anne Buzzell.

A charming addition to this year's show, although not juried, was an exhibition of children's art with young artists from seven to 12 and a display of beginners' pottery was beautifully arranged. The instructor for these two classes is Adele Passmore.

Three distinguished artists judged the show:

Eleanor Mahoney who has a studio in Reading where she conducts classes in drawing, pastel, oil and watercolor. She has a gallery in Kennebunkport, Maine. She is the recipient of many national and local awards.

Bette Wasserboehr of Andover is a graduate of the New England School of Art and the Museum School, Boston. Her paintings, which have won numerous awards at important exhibitions, have been acquired by collectors in this country and abroad. She is represented in private and corporate collections.

Special thanks are extended to Bruce Jope and Francis Toohey, both council members, for their excellent and professional hanging of the exhibition.

The chair of the Arts Council is Elizabeth White whose dedicated service throughout the year contributes to the well being of the Arts Council.

Wilmington AARP elects officers

At the Wilmington Evening Chapter of AARP's last meeting, Maryann Surman (AARP 6th Congressional Coordinator) spoke on the proposed new health care program. Shown above is our state legislative committee with Maryann Surman. L-r: Walter Kaminski, Maryann Surman, Dan Gillis, chairman, and Ed Nash (Not present was Marion Murphy).

Also at that meeting, the Nominating Committee nominated the following to be officers for next year: Doris Nash, president; Ed Nash, vice president; Evelyn Kaminski, secretary; Newell Bearse, treasurer; Marcia Bearse, public relations and membership; Eunice Case, hospitality; with Josephine Saporito assisting, Pat Gearty, day trip coordinator, with Walter Moran assisting. These people were then elected by the members present.

An exciting agenda is coming up for the next year.

Our next meeting will be held at the Winchester Hospital Family Care Center, 500 Salem St. (Rt. 62) in Wilmington. Meetings will be held on the third Wednesday of each month, with the first meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Last February, 38 AARP volunteer leaders met with President Clinton in regard to AARP's Health Care America plans. Since then, they have been in contact with Mrs. Clinton's Task Force. The Clinton's and all of Congress have been hearing from thousands of AARP Chapters in regard to Health Care America.

DON'T KEEP CHANGES SECRET

QUESTION: In relation to my auto insurance coverage, when should I inform my agent when a basic change takes place?

ANSWER: It would pay you to inform your agent in the following situations: If you buy a new car or replace one you now own, notify your agent post-haste, otherwise, there may be no coverage for the new car under your present policy. Also, you may want to add coverages for your new car that your old one didn't have or request higher limits. Be sure to notify your agent promptly of any changes of address or the drivers of your car on the policy. Such changes involve important rating considerations.

IF THERE'S A CHANGE in your car ownership or named drivers, inform your agent immediately.

Those having problems with Social Security, i.e. being dropped from SSI or being penalized with your Social Security benefits cut and you do not understand why. He will also help if you think you may qualify for any of the above mentioned programs. He can total all your income and accountable assets then count down your deductible expenses and tell you whether you do qualify and for how much. He can also assist you in figuring how much money you can have and still qualify for elder housing.

Commissioners meet July 20

We will have as our guest at the Commissioners meeting of Tuesday, July 20, Tom Abbott manager of the Social Security Office in Lowell. He will answer all questions we may have for him on Social Security, Supplemental Social Security Income (SSI) and most important Medicare and how the cut back on funds coming from Congress will effect all of us 65 and over and those approaching 65. He should be kept pretty busy answering questions about why Medicare is not covering many of the tests our doctors are requiring us to take. I am sure all of us have our own questions. Make sure you write them down. In that way, he will not have to answer the same question several times. He will remain at the center until all questions have been answered. This is an opportunity to get the questions answered directly from the man who has the correct information. So please circle Tuesday, July 20 to be at the Buzzell Senior Center starting at 2:30 p.m.

Nursing home, Medicaid, etc.

Most of us could not afford to pay the high cost of a nursing home. They can run from $170 to $300 a day, depending upon the nursing home and the services provided. At $170 a day, that figures to $5,270 a month; the $300 a day to $9,330 a month. Therefore the primary payor of such care will eventually be Medicaid. Most couples with a spouse entering a nursing home are unaware that in 1988 Congress passed a law to help the remaining spouse left in the community. Before this law was passed the couple had to spend down all their combined assets before one spouse could qualify for Medicaid.

That, of course, meant the remaining spouse was left impoverished. The 1988 law provides the remaining spouse with two allowances. The first is called "Community Spouse Resource Allowance" which allows that spouse to keep a certain amount of the assets. The other is called "Monthly Maintenance Needs Allowance." In most cases this part should be done when applying for admission.

The allowance is figured by dividing the assets in half as long as it does not exceed the allowable amount. I believe in 1993 the remaining spouse could keep up to $70,740. If you would like more information on this law please call Rebecca Benson or Elissa Brad, staff attorneys of the Cambridge/Somerville Legal Services, 1-617-494-1800 or write them at 432 Columbia St., Cambridge, Ma. 02141.

July 4

Next Sunday is the Fourth of July. The holiday will be celebrated on Monday, July 5. The Center will be closed. Meals will not be delivered or served. Shutins can order an additional meals during the week to cover Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Please call the center and let us know if you are ordering a double meal.

The minibus will not be on the road. Please make appointments accordingly. I will be on vacation for the next two weeks. I hope I have covered the items of interest for you that will be taking place this month.

New service for older workers

Two state agencies have joined forces to better serve elderly job seekers.

Under an agreement between the Executive Office of Elder Affairs (EOEA) and the Department of Employment and Training (DET), older workers will be hired to work as job specialists in DET offices.

The older workers will be trained on the job by DET and provide one-on-one assistance to older job seekers. The job specialists will be trained in all phases of DET services. Their salary and fringe benefits for a 20 hour work week will be paid by Elder Affairs through Title V funding.

Applicants for the new positions will be screened by Elder Affairs and, if eligible under the federal guidelines, will be interviewed by the local DET office manager. EOEA will also provide in-service training. A one year commitment to the program is required.

"Implementation of this program is an example of the Administration's recognition of the special concerns and needs of the older job seeker," said Secretary Franklin Ollivierre, Executive Office of Elder Affairs.

Commissioner Nils Nordberg, Department of Employment and Training said that, "EOEA's operational relationships with 343 Councils on Aging, 23 area Agencies on Aging, 290 Senior Centers and 27 Home Care Corporations provides us with direct access to the elder community and an array of resources to better serve the older worker."

Farm League Giants vs. Astros

Defense was the name of the game on this Saturday afternoon, as the Giants defeated the Astros in a gem of a defensive action. More than a little credit for the win went to Patrick O'Shea and Joe Downs, who actually saved it for the Giants with solid plays in the last of the sixth inning.

The Giants turned a triple play thanks to the smart thinking of Brian Gillespie, who grabbed a line drive off the bat of Matthew Rockoff, tagged second and threw to first baseman Sean Moroney to turn the first triple play of the year.

The Astros got great defense by outfielder Justin Huff, who made a great catch in the outfield. Greg Bendel's glove was everywhere when needed for the Astros.

Jason Senac sparked the Astros offensively. Defensively, the Giants were not to be denied, as smooth fielding rookie outfielder Joe Brogan made the catch of the year in leftfield. The Giants big bats were led by Phil O'Brien and Brian Gillespie.

Rangers vs. Astros

Three Son's tops Charlie's

by James Pote Three Sons Contracting 9 Charlie's Auto Body 8

The unbeaten Three Sons Contracting got a big scare from Charlie's Auto Body last week as it took eight innings for Three Sons to pull this one off.

Rick McCully took one deep to open the game up at 1-0 in the bottom half of the first inning. Bobby Butters and Steve Brander each drove in a teammate to extend the early lead to 3-0.

Charlie's answered with one run in the second and third innings with sacrifice flies by Jimmy Hatchey and John Chiampa.

Artie Bibeau captured the third for Three Sons with an RBI double that made it 5-2 after three innings.

Charlie's came back with an RBI by Kenny Chocla and Teddy Wicks, but Three Sons came back with two of their own with Barry Hanson and Dave Spring each having RBI hits to help them retake the lead at 7-4.

In the top half of the sixth inning Charlie's had the bases loaded and nobody out before Dave French drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and Ben Hurley reached on a three base error that brought in two runners. He later scored on a basehit by Chocla to tie it up at seven apiece.

Ronnie Barber drove in what was the go-ahead run with a smashing hit to rightfield in the eighth, but Three Sons counter attacked with two more runs coming from three basehits, with Chuck Osgood driving home the winner to keep their winning streak alive.

Stelio's 19

Shea's Concrete 10

Stelio's brought their bats out of the coffin as they exploded with 19 runs that included John Engdahl's first ever homerun at Aprile Field. Teammate Wally Welding had five RBI's, while Tony Pagliarulo also drove in three runs.

Shea's is still struggling with their gloves, but not their bats, as Bill Pierce roped a three-run homer in the first inning and Ray Parker also drove in three runs, but unfortunately that was not enough for Shea's.

Lions Club 23 McTire 20

In this wild game, the Lions Club took it with a wild ending that they would like to forget.

With the Lions ahead 7-4 going into the bottom of the second, Pat Taylor and teammates exploded with a seven run inning that was highlighted by Taylor's two-run homerun after Paul Cawthron's two-run triple to retake the lead at 11-7.

The Lions scored five runs in the fourth inning thanks to McTire's fielding and Bill Riley's RBI triple, but McTire came back with three of their own to make this slugfest 14-12 after four innings.

Jimmy Swierzynski continued his tear with another homer, as this tremendous blast was a grand slam that was included in Lions six run inning that made it 18-14 Lions.

Both teams scored one run in the sixth and the Lions scored three more in the seventh that included Scott Aldrich's three-run triple to extend the comfortable lead to 23-15.

McTire came back with five runs of their own that included RBI hits from Bill Cawthron, Mark Peters and Bobby Hoag, but that was not enough as they left two runners on.

Three Sons Contracting 11 Stelio's 1

Three Sons Contracting kept their unbeaten streak alive as they slaughtered Stelio's to make their record 6-0 in recent Wilmington Adult Softball League action.

With Stelio's ahead 1-0 in the fourth inning, Chuck Osgood took one deep to drive in what would be the winning run.

Three Sons scored two more in the fifth and then seven in the sixth inning with RBI doubles from Osgood, Artie Bibeau, Bobby Butters and Steve Brander.

Shea's Concrete 9 Lions Club 8

Shea's finally did it as they won their first game since entering the league, but this one was a nailbiter that relief pitcher Steve Gilardi helped them win.

With Jerry Deranian of Shea's and Jimmy Swierzynski both swatting homeruns in the third inning, it seemed as if it was not a great pitching matchup.

With Shea's ahead 9-8 after the third inning they sent Gilardi out to the mound who shut the Lions bats down. He retired 12 of the 13 batters who faced him while walking one.

McTire 18 Stelio's 5

McTire's bats exploded with 18 runs on 19 hits as they beat up on Stelio's, 18-5.

Bob Frongillo had a big game with a homerun and two doubles. Paul Fullerton had three hits, while Paul Cawthron drove in three runners in this slugfest.

As for the slugging Stelio's, Kenny Sugarman and Al Porterfield were the lone batters with two hits apiece.

Wilmington soccer Diamonds complete super season

The Wilmington Diamonds (girls under 10 Div. II) soccer squad has just completed a successful soccer season, finishing with six wins and two losses and qualifying for the Wilmington hosted MYSL Commissioners' Cup played on June 19 and 20 at the Shawsheen Fields.

Each player made valuable contributions throughout the year in achieving coach Daisy's goal of a return to the Commissioners' Cup.

Assistant coaches Dave Cwiekowski and Bill Dineen did an outstanding job in working with the girls at practices and helping on the sidelines during the games.

The spring soccer season started April 24 when the Wilmington Diamonds played host to the visiting Medford team. Medford scored first and Wilmington responded with a goal by Elizabeth Dorrance to even the score at halftime. Medford added two more goals in the second half on breakaways to defeat the Diamonds 3-1. Christina Desimone and Diane Dellascio played well for the Diamonds.

On May 1, the Diamonds visited Westford and played a superb game winning by a 7-1 score.

Michelle Tobin scored two goals, with assists by Liz Dorrance (two), Kerri Axelrod and Molly Pidgeon. Kristen Kacamburas also scored two goals with assists by Liz Dorrance and Brianna Daisy. Val Cwiekowski made two goals with assists by Molly Pidgeon, Brianna Daisy and Kristen Kacamburas.

A single goal was scored by Jenny Michaud with an assist by Diane Dellascio. Lisa Dineen and Christina Desimone played well on defense and Val Cwiekowski did a good job in goal.

With the team in high spirits from the previous day's game, the Diamonds visited Wakefield on May 2 to play a makeup of a previously postponed game. In an excellent display of hustle by both teams, the Diamonds prevailed, 2-0.

After a scoreless first half, the Diamonds scored on an excellent corner kick deflection by Jenny Michaud on a well placed kick by Christina Desimone. Wakefield fought back and pressured the Wilmington zone.

With less than five minutes remaining, Brianna Daisy stole the ball in the Wakefield zone and raced in along on the goalie to score the second goal. Both Brianna and Valerie Cwiekowski played exceptionally well in goal. Michelle Lemos and Lisa Dineen played solidly on defense for the Diamonds.

The fourth game of the season took place in Melrose on May 8. Despite being short three players, the Diamonds defeated Melrose, 2-0.

With the game scoreless near the end of the first half, Valerie Cwiekowski raced across the field to save a ball from going out of bounds. She centered the ball to Diane Dellascio, who kicked it past the Melrose goalie.

The second half found Melrose increasing the pressure in the Wilmington zone. With the game nearing its conclusion, Liz Dorrance was able to get open and blast a shot over the Melrose goalie for the final goal of the game.

Valerie Cwiekowski made several magnificent saves in goal to preserve the shutout. Molly Pidgeon, Lisa Dineen and Christina Desimone played solidly throughout the game.

After being on the road for three games, the Diamonds returned home Saturday, May 15 to play Concord. With two Diamonds unable to play due to sickness and one player lost to injury in the first half (Valerie Cwiekowski), the girls played their best game of the season to date by beating Concord, 7-0.

Jenny Michaud must have eaten her Wheaties for breakfast, as she scored four goals, with assists going to Christine Desimone, Valerie Cwiekowski and Michelle Lemos. Valerie Cwiekowski scored one goal, with an assist to Diane Dellascio. Kerri Axelrod scored with the assist by Lisa Dineen on an excellent throw-in. Molly Pidgeon scored her first goal of the year with an assist to Diane

Plan presented

Jay Tighe has presented his plan for a national softball tournament to both the Tewksbury and Wilmington Board of Selectmen over the past two weeks.

Tighe presents softball plan

by Jeff Nazzari

Jay Tighe, general manager of Lowell's Tighe softball Club, met with the Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday night to gain support for his bid to bring the 1994 Men's Major Modified National Softball Tourney to Wilmington.

The Tighe Club softball team won the national modified fast pitch tournament in 1984. Last week Tighe made his presentation to the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen. Wilmington selectmen voted unanimously to approve the tournament being held in Wilmington.

Dellascio. Kerri Axelrod and Michelle Tobin both played superbly in goal for the Diamonds' third shutout in a row.

On May 22 the Diamonds hosted a tough Billerica team that was the division champ in the fall season. In a hard fought game, Billerica prevailed, 3-2. Billerica pressured the Wilmington zone early in the first half and capitalized with the first two goals of the game. With the half nearing a close, the Diamonds' Michelle Lemos scored on an excellent pass by Molly Pidgeon, cutting the Billerica lead to 2-1.

With less than a minute to go in the half, Elizabeth Dorrance booted in the Diamonds' second goal with an assist going to Christine Desimone. This boosted the girls' spirits as the half ended tied, 2-2.

Despite several opportunities in the second half, the Diamonds were unable to score. In the middle of the half, Billerica intercepted the ball and kicked it past the goalie for the winning goal.

Lisa Dineen, Michelle Lemos and Val Cwiekowski played well for the Diamonds.

On Memorial Day weekend the Diamonds played in the Billerica seven vs seven tournament for under 10 girls. The girls were magnificent in the three regularly scheduled games, defeating Westford (Div II), 7-0; North Reading (Div I), 2-1 and Billerica (Div III), 2-1. This earned Wilmington the number one placement in their grouping and advancement to the playoff round on Memorial Day.

Playing against a very strong Holden team (Div I), the girls gave it their best effort despite losing, 3-0. Each player received a medal for their achievement.

The knowledge and experience gained from the Billerica Tournament paid off on June 2, as the Diamonds went to Medford to play the previously undefeated first place team of their division. In a superbly played game, the Diamonds beat Medford, 3-0.

Michelle Tobin scored the first goal early in the first half on a nice pass from Elizabeth Dorrance. With the Diamonds storming the Medford zone, the goalie knocked the ball over the goal line on several occasions. This resulted in corner kicks for the Diamonds.

Elizabeth Dorrance placed a perfect corner kick on goal that hit the goalie and went into the net for the second score. Later in the first half, Lisa Dineen placed another perfect corner kick on goal that hit a Medford player and went into the goal for the final goal of the game.

Coach Daisy has stressed defense as the way to win games and today was a good example of that strategy. Medford had previously beaten Wilmington, 3-1 with all three Medford goals scored by the same player.

In this game, Elizabeth Dorrance, Michelle Lemos, Christine Desimone, and Diane Dellascio played fine defense.

Kerri Axelrod and Val Cwiekowski were outstanding in goal and the entire team definitely played it's best game to date.

The regular soccer season ended June 12 when the Diamonds played host to the visiting Westford team. In another strong effort by the girls, they beat Westford, 5-1.

Goals were scored by Val Cwiekowski (three) with assists going to Liz Dorrance, Michelle Tobin, Kristen Kacamburas, and Kerri Axelrod. Michelle Tobin scored one goal assisted by Val Cwiekowski and Liz Dorrance. Liz Dorrance scored a goal on a nice pass from Kristen Kacamburas.

Right after the Westford game, coach Daisy ran his annual spring parents/kids game. For the second consecutive year the parents defeated the Diamond players. The score was 1-0. Desimone, Dellascio and Cwiekowski were excellent in goal for the parents.

Also participating in an excellent team effort were Mrs. Axelrod, Mr. and Mrs. Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance, Mr. and Mrs. Michaud, Mr. Kacamburas, Mrs. Dellascio, Mr. Dineen and Mr. Daisy. Many thanks to the parents for their support of the team throughout the season.

Outdoors column

Is that thing edible?

by Bill Conlon

Fish engage in some pretty wild dining habits at times, eating things that bear no resemblance whatever to the real, living things.

If we wanted to put exactly what fish eat in front of them, we'd use live bait exclusively. But we don't. Artificial lures are the only choice for many sport anglers, in part because fish don't swallow artificials quite as quickly as they do natural foods.

Fishing lures tend to lean toward two extremes: There are absolutely life-like imitations, and there are things that look like no creature that ever crawled or slithered upon this planet.

The straight imitations are simple. Imitation minnows and rubber frogs are meant to look lifelike, and some of the diving plugs are so realistic that you want to store them in water instead of in a tackle box.

But what the heck is a spinnerbait supposed to imitate?

A spinnerbait has a weighted hook and rubber skirt, with an enormous spinner wobbling above the hook on a "bent pin" bracket.

I've studied spinnerbaits from all angles, and I still can't imagine what they're supposed to imitate.

A straight weighted hook with a rubber skirt could pass for a jig, and I think a jig may resemble a minnow nosing along the bottom. They work quite well, at times.

But that huge, dinner-plate-sized spinner throws me. Does the throb of a spinner draw in predators, who think they've found a wounded bait-fish? Then what? Instead of a fish they find a little helicopter thumping along the bottom. Odd.

What about an Arbogast Jitterbug, that time-honored surface plug for fishing after sunset?

Drop a bug on the water and it will buzz more than swim. (Bugs aren't designed for swimming.) I've seen mice swim by the boat, but they do a standard dog paddle with little wake and just their tiny heads above the surface. Nothing in all my years of fishing looks anything remotely like a Jitterbug in the water, with its side-to-side wobble and noise.

But a bass will blow a J-bug off the top with gusto when conditions are right. Fish seem to think they look tasty, but what do they look like? Another noise-maker that may incite a riot is Heddon's Crazy Crawler, which is noisier than a Jitterbug.

I've never seen a bird try to swim, so might that be it? Still, how many birds are going to land in the drink in the lifetime of any given fish?

Every fly-rodder knows how hard it can be to catch trout when there's a "hatch" underway. If your fly is not a perfect imitation of the bugs that are hatching, go home. So why are salmon eggs and mealy worms so effective on trout? There aren't many salmon hereabouts, and mealy worms are pretty scarce, too, but a trout will devour both baits on sight.

Or take the rubber worm. These fiendishly effective strands of plastic drive bass insane, but when was the last time you saw a nightcrawler in the water? Have you ever?

I'm convinced that rubber worms imitate tadpoles, not worms, snakes or even leeches. When a tadpole hits a certain stage in its development, it starts gulping air. The tadpole rises to the top, grabs a gulp of air, then swims back down to the bottom. I'm convinced that the splash of a rubber worm hitting the water attracts the curious, then the fish sees the worm sinking like a swimming tadpole and BANG! At least, that's my theory, but it fails to explain why red and purple are the hottest colors in all of rubber wormdom. Has anyone ever seen a purple frog this side of Costa Rica?

Now, I can make allowances in a few cases. Metal spoons wobble like a wounded minnow, explaining that one, and I suppose a Slug-Go could be a passable imitation of a wounded minnow. Maybe. On a good day.

But what about pork rind? Strips of pig skin, pickled in brine. Gee, is there a slaughterhouse nearby that I don't know about?

Never seen any of that swimming around in the ponds I fish. Never.

— Tackle Box —

Apologies, twice removed. First, this month's Reader's Digest has a story about a hoax. A speech by Chief Seattle, delivered in the late 1800s, was wildly twisted around by an author, who invented all sorts of environmentalist babblings that the great chief never uttered. I fell for it last year, and wrote a piece about Chief Seattle's speech, which it now turns out was a hoax. Ouch! Sorry!

And I'm also sorry for missing the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers two-day derby last weekend. I have to give credit to Bill Biswanger from the Lowell Sun for providing the names of the winners, which included Ken Chisolm of Wilmington, who pulled in $500 for the top carp, weighing 23.44 pounds; and Ron Ahlquist of Tewksbury, for a smallmouth that weighed 2.26 pounds. Thanks Bill.

Softball takes on an international flavor

A Massachusetts women's modified softball team featuring a group of outstanding collegiate athletes that includes star players from Tewksbury and Wilmington has been invited to represent the United States in the first Modified World Championship, to be held in Salinas, Puerto Rico June 28-July 31.

Chuck Lombardo of Methuen, Coach of the PA team of Lawrence, was notified by Don Porter, Executive Director of the Amateur Softball Association (ASA), based in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, that the team had earned a berth in the world championship event as determined by the ASA and the Foreign Relations committee in accordance with the policies and procedures approved by the ASA Board of Directors. The ASA is the international governing body of the sport and oversees the activities of USA Softball and the U.S. Olympic program.

The PA team finished second in the country in the last three Amateur Softball Association National Modified Softball Tournaments. Following their 1991 loss in Spokane, Washington the team was highly motivated to train diligently for the 1992 national week-long tournament planned for August in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Bags were packed and team members were waiting at Logan Airport when their departure was halted by the devastation of Hurricane Andrew.

The ASA squeezed the tournament into a weekend in Churchville, Maryland in October. The ballplayers who were vacationing in August were back to work and school in October, and Lombardo fielded a team with only 10 women on the roster that was originally 18.

Giving a valiant effort, the PA team played six games in one day, defeating the defending national champion, The House That Jack Built of Buffalo, N.Y., in a thrilling seventh inning come-from-behind-victory.

The loss of the PA team in the championship game to the Guayama Mets was, "very hard, but we knew we were facing a world class team. The Mets had Olympian caliber ball players, and they made our squad, diminished in numbers, play with great perseverance and a lot of heart," said Lombardo. "The Mets are a great team and we have enormous respect for them."

The PA team's blend of experienced veterans and exciting newcomers include some of the finest women's softball players in Massachusetts.

Shortstop Helen Phillips, Tewksbury High School All-American in basketball and football, played at Stonehill College. She was selected as MVP of the 1991 national tournament, a rarity for a player on the losing team. "These women have stellar backgrounds, tremendous talent, and good leadership qualities. To use a Boston team colloquialism, they're our Big 3 Three," said Lombardo.

Also helping to lead the squad is Wilmington's Kathy Madden, the pitcher who captained the Northern Essex Community College Lady Knights and was named to the All-Region Team.

The team has trained on weekends at Northern Essex. In competition this year, the PA team has swept first place in both the Laconia Major Modified Invitational Tournament and the Keene Major Modified Bud Light Invitational. Both events attracted teams from throughout New England, N.Y., N.J. and Penn.

The coach is reservedly optimistic about the team's chances in Salinas. "Softball is extremely popular in Latin and South American countries, as well as in Asia. From what I've read about softball in Australia, it's really big there too."

Lombardo is excited about the prospect of competing in a world championship tournament. "I do think that, for everyone associated with the team, it's the thrill of a lifetime. For me personally, it's a great honor. To know that you will be there representing your country

Taking the mound for the win was Lorraine Pappalardo. She did a great job throwing nine strikeouts, while Kerry Flynn, Jill Tammamro and Val Bemis all had hits to back up their pitcher and secure the win. Both Leslie Dobbins and Stacy Ennis did a fine job for A-1 Fish on the mound, with Rita Smith playing well defensively and Leslie Dobbins and Melissa Doherty showing their offensive talent.

Capital Fire Equipment 24 Therapit 13

Pitching her first game for Capital Fire Equipment, Lori Hurd did a great job with plenty of backup from Jamie Lightfoot at second base and Monique Giannelli making a great catch in leftfield.

For Therapit-Tewksbury, Kristin Bedard threw well for several innings doing a fine job before returning to short, and Gina Santagate came in to finish the pitching duties. Danielle Kennedy was strong at second.

Scrappers win O'Brien Tourney

The third annual Kevin J. O'Brien one pitch tournament was played May 21, 22 and 23 in Tewksbury. The popular tourney drew 24 teams from the area, with some from as far away as New Hampshire.

The event once again was a great success. Everyone who attended had a ball, and funds were raised for a great cause.

A local team, the Scrappers, won the tournament, while UPS finished second and Murray Construction placed third.

The Scrappers were paced by their captain Steve Marsh throughout the tourney with timely hitting, clutch fielding and solid pitching, while the UPS captain

Scott O'Brien (Kevin's brother) led his team to a strong second place finish.

Murray Construction was led by brothers Joey and Erick Murray, as they lifted their local modified team to their best finish since the tournament's inception three years ago.

In other related events, Dickie Meade won the Homerun Derby Contest, while Dave Libby finished second. The top umpiring crew went to Joe Kearns, Tommy Gallelo and Jim Sullivan who donated their entire weekend to umpiring and selling t-shirts while never blowing a call.

Slovak student looks for help

She has the marks but money a ???

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

In August 1992, 16-year-old Katarina Matasova arrived from Czechoslovakia to spend her senior year at Reading High because she wanted to learn about American culture and improve her English.

This week, 17-year-old Katarina Matasova flies back to Slovakia determined to return to America in September, the only place where her dreams of a college education can be realized.

While her days at Reading High came together in a series of magical moments she'd never imagined possible, her country fell apart.

"Czechoslovakia divided in January," says Matasova, who has been living with host family Dennis, Valerie, Gretchen, and Christopher Laabs. "Now we have two separate countries, Czechoslovakia - the Czech Republic - and Slovakia."

"Slovakia is a very, very poor country," she continues. "We are in deep crisis. Many people are unemployed. Some of my schoolmates, for example, are getting married right now because we don't have any good colleges, not enough colleges and there are no jobs. They are getting married and hope to be able to educate their children."

"When Katarina came, there was no expectation of her staying here, nor is there now, after she receives a college education," says Dennis Laabs, whom she calls 'Dad.' "But conditions changed with the dividing of the country. There are very limited opportunities for advanced education in her part of Slovakia which is very rural and remote from the capital."

"Around Christmas, her parents realized the implications of the dividing country and they're the ones who asked her in January to investigate college in the United States."

"Also, my schoolmates wrote me letters when they didn't get accepted to colleges, and so many young people don't have any jobs," she says. "I really got scared."

In January, the whole Laabs family sprung into action, researching ways for "Katka" to attend college.

Qualifications were not a problem. Having studied English as a written language for only three years, Matasova took a full set of courses at Reading High where her final grades speak for themselves: American History, A-; Advanced Writing, A; World Literature, A; Concert Band, A; Chorus, A; Senior Physical Education, A; and Advanced Accounting, A+.

Extra-curricular activities were not a problem. When she began the year, she joined the cross-country team, band and chorus, reducing those activities when college popped into the picture, to devote more time to improving her vocabulary.

She is also active in Woburn's Lutheran church where she belongs to the youth group and girls' choir.

And those who attended the Reading High Class of '93 graduation are still talking about the warm personality which bubbled through the stirring speech she gave about her year in America.

THE LAABS FAMILY OF READING increased by one this year with the arrival of Slovakian exchange student Katarina Matasova (left front). In addition to participating in many activities at Reading High, Katarina joined the girls' choir and youth group at Woburn's Lutheran church where Dennis and Valerie Laabs are youth group advisors. "Sister" Gretchen (front and center) also belongs to the youth group and plays in the Woburn City Band. On the right is Christopher Laabs, Katarina's brother for the year.

ANTHONY MANCONI

A politician seeking the farm vote said in a speech to the farmers, "I was born and raised on a farm. I can plow a field, milk a cow and shoe a horse. I'll venture to say that no one can tell me anything silence, Frank Mazzoni of Wilmington shouted, "Can you lay an egg?"... You know folks, it's easy to be an angel, when nobody ruffles your wings.

"Stay away from the dancing hall, the people there are not good at all. That's where I met your father, Bridget darling." Those words of a popular song years ago were meant to be funny. They weren't true at all because the finest people I know have been, and some of them still are, ballroom dancers. I hear that ballroom dancing is making a come back and I couldn't be happier. Young men will shave regularly again and the young women (God love them) will dress as ladies and, if a little more respect for themselves and others comes from this new trend, I'll be the first to shout, "Hallelujah!"

Ponce de Leon looked in vain for the Fountain of Youth in Florida but he could have found it on every dance hall floor in America so, let's go dancing, folks.

Most of you (I am sure) have seen how a magnet attracts an iron nail. Well, some have a "magnetic personality" that draw people toward them. They have that certain warmth that seems to say, "Welcome, friend, I'm happy to see you." That invisible but powerful force in an individual is called charisma.

Some of the many people I know in the Middlesex East area who are blessed with that wonderful attribute are Robert Skelly, Stoneham; Charlie Mullen, Woburn; Harry McLeod, Winchester; Fr. Martin Ryan, St. Margaret's Church Burlington; Stacey MacCurtin, Reading; Fr. Jack Farrell, Lynnfield; Frank Renda, Wakefield; Ed Sargent, Tewksbury; Gus Strangie, North Reading; Eddie Costello, Medford, Mary

Austin has Awards Ceremony

Austin Preparatory School of Reading recently held its 30th annual Awards Night Program. This is a formal occasion during which the school pays tribute to students for participation in the life of the school, and for outstanding achievements in academics and activities.

Prior to the Awards Ceremony many of the students and their families attended a Mass of Thanksgiving in the school chapel. The celebrant and homilist was Rev. John Harrington, Chairman of the Religious Education Department. Dean of Student Activities Celia Barletta opened the Awards Ceremony with a brief address to the assembly of students, faculty members, parents, and friends.

Among the highlights of the evening was the presentation of the William J. Hickey, Jr. Memorial Good Sportsmanship Award, which was won by Eric Dube of Pelham, NH. The Charles Luciano Unsung Student Loyalty Award went to Michael Brewster of Woburn, and the Middlesex County Bar Association Citizenship Award went to Keith Moran of Reading.

About the Towns

"About The Towns" covers recent events, in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE NORTH READING "TRANSCRIPT" - Better yet, let's hear straight from the "Transcript":

"File this one under the 'Now we've heard everything' department" begins the article on erotica in North Reading, which to top it off, has been dealing with an odd-even water ban.

"An erotic furnishings manufacturer at 52 Main Street has appealed the decision of the building inspector to cease and desist his operations.

"Rachel's Pleasures 'Cumfy Cuffs' and other sexual accessories are being manufactured at the Main Street location, according to Building Inspector William Halligan, purportedly for mail order retail sales by J.P. Manufacturing. The town's zoning bylaws do not allow the manufacture of products in the Highway Business District, which is where the company is located....

"The custom-made Cumfy Cuffs markets a line of products dubbed with such suggestive names as 'lust loops'....

Sorry, lack of space does not permit us to continue but we will bring you more details on the situation as our undercover reporters at the nearby Park Colony Condominiums bring them in.

"HEALTHY MALDEN 2000" IS ON ITS WAY - To better understand and address community health needs, Malden Mayor Edwin Lucey and Malden Hospital president Stanley Krygowski are co-sponsoring a year-long community health needs assessment.

By next March, they hope to have established or determined the following: collection of a variety of data showing the community's health status; collaboration among public and private agencies to create effective networks of health services and resources; public consensus on priority health issues in the community; coordinated action plans to solve identified health issues; and funding to help solve some of those identified issues.

The project's success depends on input from as many segments of the population as possible.

Student

From S-1

"The idea to apply to college came very late in the year," says Dennis. "It's a pragmatic decision. We're also very aware of the great discrepancy between the income and economics of her country and ours. There's no way anyone except a very wealthy person from that country could afford tuition here."

Together, they established the following criteria: "It's got to be a school that has an international business curriculum and experience with international students," says Laabs. "It has to have at least 2,000 to 3,000 students to have a critical mass because she has to go back home with credentials that mean something."

"It has to be close enough to Reading that we don't have to spend money flying there. And it has to have discretionary scholarship money - so state schools are out of the question."

"As a foreign exchange student, Katka is not entitled to anything our kids might have, no guaranteed loans, nothing."

"And yet, her parents are not wealthy. There are a lot of international students around, the majority of whom are self-supporting. We do not see them from Slovakia by the way. None of the colleges have ever had a Slovakian student."

Since January, the Laabs family and Katarina have been calling, writing and visiting prospective schools, in New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont, some more than once.

Matasova took the SATs and Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) plus extensive examinations at each site; interviewed two or three people at each school; studied even harder at home; made more phone calls to scholarship and Slovak associations she discovered through research at the Boston Public Library; and even dialed Washington, DC.

"I was really hoping I would get some money from my government, but it didn't happen," she says. "I called the embassy and they told me they were sorry but they didn't even have money to support their students in Slovakia."

Her parents filled out financial aid forms, allowed themselves to be audited, and will pay some of her expenses. "But," says Laabs, "their total income is far less than one year's tuition, far less - and they are successful small-scale fruit and produce wholesalers. They have two trucks they use to deliver apples to various produce shops and stores."

"They work very hard. This summer, Katarina is going to be working physically harder than most American girls have ever worked."

College acceptances were not a problem, once they decided where she should apply and sent along her SAT scores.

Money is the problem.

Matasova had $2,000 to spend this year. She traveled to Washington, DC, New York City and Florida with the Laabs and is returning to Slovakia with small souvenirs for the family.

She spent the year - in between studies which often kept her up until midnight or two in the morning - babysitting, shoveling snow, mowing lawns, helping Dennis with clerical work, delivering newspapers, and even walking a dog.

She will work all summer from sunrise until well past sunset in her family's business in Giraltovec, a rural town of about 4,000 where generations of families live and work together; where the 1950s mingle with the '90s; dinner often depends on the chickens and pigs in the yard, and produce from the garden; and a loaf of bread costs the equivalent of $20.

"I thought maybe I could find a sponsor at home, maybe a rich businessman, but it's not possible," she says.

"I thought she was going to have more money when she came," says Laabs. "Most students come here with a budget and spend every penny of it. We've taken trips and she's paid her own expenses - but that's before we knew she was going to college. I cancelled a trip to the West Coast because I didn't want to spend her money."

And she chose to forego another excursion because her first priority was to study for finals.

"I'd like to go to college in America because I really would like to be a manager," she says. "This is my priority. I want to study something that will be progressive in my country. I want to study business because my father has his own wholesale business so I can help him and many other people like him."

"We don't have any business schools. For many, many years we were a communist country. I'd like to travel and help my country, help it get ahead with foreign trade, exporting and importing."

"What we are doing right now is sending all our capital to the Germans and buying American chewing gum and jeans for hundreds of dollars. We should be buying machinery instead of consumer goods."

"Our dilemma is quite simple," says Laabs. "The colleges cost $18,000 to $20,000. A college might offer $8,000 or $10,000 which is wonderful but the balance - her parents can maybe do half of that but they've got to live."

"The dilemma is that within the next few days we'll decide which school to send $350 to. That's a lot of money, about two months of her mother's income - and her parents, being in business, have a better life style and more cash flow than others. The dilemma is that we have to make a decision to send $350 on faith, take the college financial package and guaranteed job, and between now and September come up with some significant funds."

They figure if they can raise $5,000, they can get her through the first year and be the first ones to apply, come the next financial aid season.

"We're possibility-thinkers," says Laabs. "The reason she didn't get financial aid is not that she wasn't worthy. It's that there weren't any funds left this late. We couldn't complete the application until the TOEFL test on May 7th. Once she gets to college and shows them what she can do..."

If determination can spin golden plans into gold, Matasova will be back in Reading, come September.

HOSPITAL OFFERS TOUR OF SUITE

Having a child is an exciting and beautiful experience, but it is wise to be fully prepared. There are many things that need to be learned such as the accommodations, the chosen hospital offers, the policies of the hospital and the options and comforts available during the stay.

One of the best ways to discover the choices available is to tour the Maternity Suite at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital. During a visit, persons spend time with a member of the maternity staff learning about giving birth to a child.

The next scheduled maternity suite tour is Monday, July 19, at 8 p.m. The tour is free and no registration is required. Interested persons should meet in the main lobby of Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, 585 Lebanon St., Melrose.

To learn more about MWH's Tour of the Maternity Suite, please call (617) 979-3389.

SPECIAL CHILDREN'S SUMMER WORKSHOPS

The first workshop for children ages 7-10 is Adventures in Maya Archaeology. Become an archaeologist and explore the world of the ancient Maya. Learn Maya math, decipher stone glyphs and play a Maya ball game. This workshop will take place on Thursday, July 22, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Pre-registration is required. The fee for these special workshops is $15 per workshop for Museum members, and $20 for non-members. As a special offer, three workshops over the summer would cost $40 total.

STUDY SKILLS COURSE AT MINUTEMAN TECH

Registration is being accepted for Students: Making the Grade with Study Skills offered at Minuteman Tech Summer School. Two one-week sessions are available. Session I meets July 5-9; 12 noon to 3 p.m. and Session II meets July 12-16; 12 noon to 3 p.m.

This is an ideal course for students in grades 7-12 who need to develop efficient, time saving, study techniques for mastering school subjects. Students learn strategies that improve listening, note taking, reading comprehension, memorizing, test taking and much more.

Study skills are the great equalizer. They provide the missing link for bright capable learners whose potential is not reflected in school grades. Furthermore, study skills demystify the learning process thereby offering all students the means to become organized and confident learners.

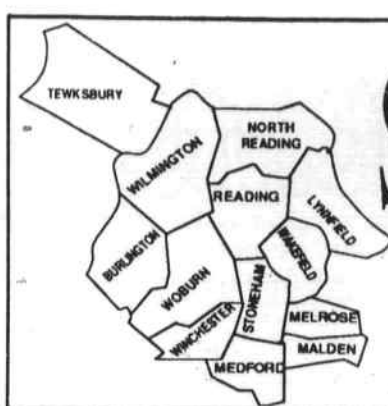

Students learn how to manage time they spend studying to gain maximum understanding in and out of class. Efficient techniques lead to improved grades and enjoyment in academics. This is the road to increased motivation and academic success.

The instructor, Roberta Wolman, is a full time Reading and Learning Disabilities Specialist at Minuteman and a registered educational tutor with the Learning Disabilities Network in Hingham. She has been a successful instructor of study skills since 1972. In addition, Ms. Wolman is an expert in SAT preparation. She has served as a consultant and author in the field of education.

Register by calling Minuteman Tech Community Education at (617) 861-7150, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. To obtain specific course information contact the instructor in the evening at (617) 721-1065. The course fee is $95 (materials $6).

The Louvre Museum in Paris has about eight miles of galleries.

LYNNFIELD LOSES ROSELLI - "Going to Chelsea will be a nice change," says Lynnfield Director of Curriculum and Melrose resident Dr. Anthony Roselli, in the "Lynnfield Villager."

"To work in a place where there's good will, vision and honesty and where my talent and skills won't be suppressed but rather welcomed and will flourish."

"I was extremely happy for two years. Working with (former Superintendent Dr.) Jeff Young and (former Director of Finance and Administration) Sandy Guryan was a treat. I'll be glad to get back to that feeling of excitement that I had those two years working with those people ...."

Ending an application process which began in December, Roselli has been unanimously appointed an assistant superintendent with the Boston University-Chelsea Partnership.

Roselli had received a reduction-in-force notice in March and his position was eliminated in April with Lynnfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. John Flores' School-Committee-approved reorganization plan which also eliminated the director of special education and reading. According to that plan, Flores will take on additional curriculum duties and there will be a new position of director of pupil services to encompass special education, guidance, testing, and school nurses.

Just before that, the plan had been for Roselli to become director of curriculum and personnel.

Roselli was recently part of a statewide total quality management training team sponsored by Polaroid; a finalist for the Ayer superintendency and a full professorship at Bridgewater State College; and a visitor to Reading during Reading's second assistant superintendent search this year and at just about the time the BU-Chelsea offer was finally made final.

Local trivia buffs will remember that Young, now Superintendent of Schools in Lexington, had also dropped into Reading not that long ago and before his stint in Lynnfield.

STONEHAM KIDS COUNT THEIR LUCKY STARS ... now that Jim Schneider, "the math wizard," has paid them a visit at the Robin Hood School.

A math teacher at Newton North High, Schneider brings with him a bag of props which includes the ingredients for math Jeopardy, tricks for solving multiplication problems, and talking calculators.

WAKEFIELD NEEDS VOLUNTEERS - The Wakefield School Department is looking for parents, citizens, teachers, and administrators to serve on its various and constantly forming committees.

Work could include curriculum committees and screening committees for administrators, such as the committee which will interview candidates for the position of elementary principal in the Dolbeare-Montrose School District.

Anyone interested in joining a future committee may add his or her name to the list being compiled now by Susan Majeski in the Superintendent's office at (617)246-6400. She will keep your name on file as a future resource.

WINCHESTER STUDENTS HONORED - The Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth has honored Winchester's McCall seventh graders Richard Donohue, Sam Richardson, Nick Stephanopoulos, and Andrew Wray for the outstanding verbal and/or mathematical ability they showed by scoring well above the SAT mean for high school seniors.

Stephanopoulos is one of 22 students in the country to receive a National Talent Search Award for scoring at or above 630 on the verbal section of the SAT or 700 on the math section before the age of 13.

Ken Takase of Reading also received a National Talent Search Award.

WAKEFIELD RATIONALIZES HALF DAYS - Got your attention, didn't we? Now, go figure:

Voting for half days on the final four days of school, Wakefield School Committee members - encouraged by Wakefield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Stephen Maio - had all kinds of reasons for their recent decision.

State law requires that students attend school 180 days a year. Luckily for Wakefield, state law also allows June 29th and 30th and July 1st and 2nd to be

MOVIES

"Sleepless in Seattle"

by Rochelle Flynn

"Sleepless in Seattle." Starring Meg Ryan, Tom Hanks, Bill Pullman, Ross Malinger. Directed by Nora Ephron. Screenplay by Ephron, David S. Ward, Jeff Arch. Produced by Gary Foster. Rated PG.

Annie, a reporter for the Baltimore Sun, announces her engagement on Christmas Eve. Bill Pullman, playing her hubby-to-be, is a sensible, sturdy guy whose allergic to everything under the sun. His biggest sin is he's boring. But hey, how can you blame him for that?

Trying hard to convince herself that she's going to be quite happy with her comfortable relationship, Annie falls, with a thud, for a voice she hears over the radio. An eight-year-old boy in Seattle, who is worried about his widowed dad, calls a radio shrink for advice. Dad is lured onto the phone and charms half the women in America, especially sensible Annie.

This little cosmic blip is at the heart of a romantic comedy that recalls all those delightful movies Hollywood never seems to make anymore. Based firmly in the old Cary Grant/Deborah Kerr sudser, "An Affair to Remember," this intelligent, witty story unabashedly embraces the idea of destiny and makes us believe in the magic of movies.

Annie tries so hard to convince herself she's in love with her beige boyfriend and that her arguments begin to sound hollow, even to her. Best friend and co-worker Becky (Rosie O'Donnell) encourages her to track down that radio voice dubbed "Sleepless in Seattle."

Though Ephron's clever direction keeps the story alive without it getting far-fetched, the reason this film clicks is all in the chemistry. Ephron collected a cast that could really make us accept the power of love, even when it doesn't make sense.

Jonah (Ross Malinger) is one of those rare child actors - he can play eight without that precocity and irritable cuteness found in so many cinematic kiddies. He is absolutely convinced by the letter Annie wrote (which was secretly mailed by her best friend) that Annie is the right person for his dad.

Tom Hanks has never before given such a convincing performance. The lost look on his face after his wife dies stays with him. He gets himself through the day, goes to work, takes care of his son. But the pain is always there, and it's a tribute to Hanks' acting ability that we know how he feels without him having to tell us.

Simply put, a lesser cast would never have been able to convince us of Annie and Jonah's belief in destiny. Jonah is unshakable in his desire to get his father and Annie together. Annie is afraid that she hasn't been listening to her heart enough, that she may be missing the chance of a lifetime.

Ephron works out the logistics of a cross country obsession with a lot of humor. We accept her characters because this humor is tinged with such loneliness that we want Annie to take a chance, we want Jonah to be right even though the odds are against him. It's just enough to make you believe in romance - even in the cynical 90s.

Last Action Hero is part fairy tale, part comedy, part action adventure. By trying to be too many things, it fails as a cohesive effort. But there are lots of fun scenes as an 11-year-old boy learns he can't hide from real life in the movies. Arnold Schwarzenegger is both funny and convincing as the cinematic hero who becomes all too real.

The special effects and action sequences are top notch, but the movie's message is too obvious for a film so lacking in substance. Rated PG-13. ** 1/2

Life with Mikey is a cute take on the child actor turned unhappy adult theme. Michael J. Fox plays a former TV star turned talent agent whose specialty is kids. Christina Vidal is the precocious, but troubled ball of talent he plucks off the streets after she steals his wallet. Funnier and less saccharine than it sounds until the ending, this is breezy and amusing. Rated PG. ***

What's Love Got To Do With It? stars Angela Bassett as Tina Turner and Laurence Fishburne as Ike Turner, her Svengali husband/manager. Kudos to the filmmakers for not shrinking away from the abuse Ike heaped upon Tina as she outgrew him artistically and emotionally. Fishburne is all coiled intensity as he stares through Bassett, JONAH (ROSS MALINGER) goes to heroic lengths in attempting to bring his widower father, Sam (Tom Hanks), and Annie (Meg Ryan) together in the romantic comedy "Sleepless in Seattle," a TriStar Pictures release.

whose fiery impersonation of Tina is right on the money. Rated R. ****

Jurassic Park is the ultimate movie in every sense of the word. Resurrected dinosaurs both enchant and terrify the first visitors to a newly developed theme park. It doesn't matter that the dinos are the only stars here and the people are barely fleshed out, because the special effects will keep you on the edge of your seat.

ON WATCH FOR AMERICA.

On ships, planes and submarines, in locations around the world, the men and women of the United States Navy are on watch. They're putting their training to work in jobs that make a difference, while developing skills they'll need for a successful future. Just as important, they're doing it for their country. They're Navy people, working hard for America. And that makes us proud.
